Suggestion for U. S. Government Program [redacted]

Offer twenty(20) scholarships (full--with all expenses paid) to Russian students at one, two, or more American universities.

Publicize the plan as widely as possible, in the Press, Radio, TV, USIA, and all overseas points.

Ask nothing in return.

If the Russians accept the offer, proceed with the plan.

If they do not, they suffer a propaganda defeat.

Suggestion for U. S. Government Program by [redacted]

Develop a World Literacy program aimed at increasing self-help in countries throughout the world through self-education.

Support the program by providing language experts, teacher trainers, and a wealth of literature designed to satisfy local interests and needs for written information.

NOTE: There is a World Literacy movement which has had much success but on too limited a scale. The resources of the U. S. Government behind a much expanded program could be a tremendous influence in world affairs.
